DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 8-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bier et al (US 3,756,104).

Bier et al teaches a glass cutting machine comprising all the method steps claimed including, inter alia, inherent movement of the cutting tool at an angle to the travel direction of the glass sheet (G)¹; producing a fissure; an inherent mechanical breaking of the glass sheet along the fissure; and wherein the cutting force is adapted to the thickness of the glass. Note Figs. 1-5, c. 1, ll. 9-16, ll. 40-47.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

¹ Note Sasabuchi et al (US 3,282,140) as exemplary of such movement.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bier et al (US 3,756,104).

Bier et al discloses the invention substantially as claimed except for the thermo-mechanical strain for producing the fissure. However, the Examiner submits that thermo-mechanical strain is a common and well known method step in the glass cutting art to produce a fissure, e.g. laser, and thereby would be an obvious substitute. Thus, it would have been obvious to the ordinary artisan at the time of the instant invention to provide the method of Bier et al with a thermo-mechanical strain inducing means to facilitate the inducement of the fissure for the reasons stated supra.

As a result, the sensing means would naturally, i.e. inherently, take into consideration the heat source output for determining cutting force.
